

An Unexpected

The _____ family set off on a road trip to the (last name)
beach, armed with snacks, road maps, and a playlist full of their favorite songs. Little did they know, it was not going to be the _____ trip they expected. Within the first hour, (adjective)
Dad insisted on taking a "shortcut" that led them straight into a
_____.
(place)

Mom had misread the GPS and directed them to a deserted town that looked a little creepy. There were _____ on the (plural noun)
side of the road.

Once they found their way back to the highway, the car's GPS started giving directions in a _____ accent, (foreign language)
confusing everyone.

What else could go wrong?

Just when the family thought they were going to lose their minds, they started to smell the _____ air. They must (adjective)
be close to the beach! They had never been so happy to get out of the car.

The kids kissed the _____ as they pulled (noun)
into the parking lot of the hotel.

Feather Fiasco

As the _____ family cruised down the highway, singing
(last name)
their favorite tunes, a sudden thud against the windshield startled them. Before they knew what happened, a _____ landed inside their car, flapping (type of bird)
wildly. The kids _____, Mom shrieked, and Dad (verb)
pulled over

Mom and Dad scrambled to get the bird out. But 4 year old bird-lover Sarah decided that she wanted to keep the bird. She grabbed the bird and tried to keep it away from her parents. She fed it some

_____.
(food)
In the middle of all the noise, the family cat woke up and dove toward the bird. The bird flew out of Sarah's

_____.
(body part)
Mom tried to shoo the bird toward an open _____.
(part of a car)

The bird landed in Dad's _____ and pooped. A (body part)
lot.

Then, the bird finally found its way out the open window.

The family continued on, even though everyone was _____ now. The cat didn't get a snack, Sarah (adjective)
didn't have a new pet and Dad had poop in his _____.
(body part)

Pets Gone Wild

The _____ family decides to bring their (last name)

_____ assortment of pets on the road trip – a (adjective)
parrot, a hamster, and a goldfish in a bowl.

After only about _____ minutes, everything started to (number)

go wrong. The hamster got out of his cage and went under the

_____. None of the kids could catch him. Then, he (part of a car)

started eating all the _____ the had packed.
(food)

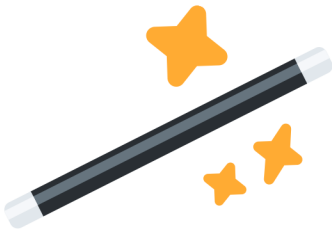

Then, the parrot started mimicking the GPS over and over. His favorite thing to say was “ _____ ”. The parents tried to (something a GPS says)

tell their kids to _____, but they couldn't hear a thing.
(verb)

To make everything worse, part of the road was very rough and the water from the goldfish bowl started to spill all over the kid's

_____. Everyone was miserable until finally they (body part)

arrived at their vacation spot _____ hours later.
(number)

The Mystery of the Magical Snack Cooler

The _____ family was ready for their annual road
(last name)
trip. The only problem was that Mom had been distracted and had only packed _____ in the snack cooler.
(healthy snack)

The kids whined and wished for more snacks. Magically, some _____ appeared. "Whoa!" , the kids said. "Did (yummy snack)
you see that?"

They opened the snack cooler again and this time, _____ appeared. The kids opened the cooler over and (another yummy snack)
over, and each time they were given more snacks. Mom started to get _____ as she saw the kids stuffing their faces with (adjective)
so much junk food. The mom wished that the cooler would stop.

The next time the kids opened the cooler, there wasn't a new snack, there was _____. It made the whole car smell.
(something smelly)
The kids threw it out the window. All of their snacks now smelled like it, too!

They started to cry. The mom didn't want to hear her children cry so she wished again for snacks. The kids ate _____ pieces of (number)
junk food and even the mom didn't care anymore.