

Valentine's Day Party Chaos

It was the day of the Valentine's Day party at school, and everyone was excited to celebrate with _____ (noun). Mia couldn't wait to give her best friend, Zoe, a giant _____-shaped (noun) _____ (noun) she had baked with her mom. But when she opened her lunchbox, it was _____! "Oh no!" Mia gasped. Zoe had brought in balloons to decorate the classroom, but one popped and floated away, causing everyone to _____. As the music played, Marcus tried to show off his dance moves but accidentally knocked over a _____ filled with punch. Red liquid spilled everywhere, and everyone slipped on the _____. To make matters worse, the classroom lights flickered, and the overhead projector started playing a _____ (adjective) movie instead of the Valentine's slideshow. The teacher, Ms. Green, was trying to fix everything but tripped over a pile of _____. In the end, the party was a little crazy, but everyone laughed and agreed it was still the best _____ ever! (noun)

The Missing Valentines

The students in Room 12 had spent _____ days

making _____ Valentine's cards for their (adjective)

classmates. On party day, everyone placed their cards in a big decorated _____ at the front of the room. At the end of the day, Ms. Ramirez said, "Okay, time to pass out your Valentines!"

(noun)

But when she opened the box—it was empty! Everyone gasped, and Lily shouted, "Did someone steal our cards?" The class searched under

_____, behind the _____, and even (plural noun) (noun)

inside the _____. Just when they were about to give (noun)

up, Max pointed to the open window. "Look!" he said. A strong gust of wind had blown the cards out, and they were scattered all over the

_____. The whole class ran outside, laughing as (noun)

they chased the _____ Valentines. They didn't catch (adjective)

them all, but they said it was the most _____ (adjective)

Valentine's Day ever!
